Kristof Abrath: Games and activities to get your teens speak

As a teacher it isn't always easy to get teens to speak and you don't always have a lot of time to plan or come up with new activities. In this seminar we will have a look at, practice and participate in practical and ready to use activities for you to use in your classroom. We will have a closer look at various icebreakers, warmers, fillers, and fun activities to practice vocabulary and grammar that are suitable for all levels while getting your students speaking.

20. 8. 9.00 - 12.30

Kristof Abrath: Making writing more fun and engaging

Getting students to write in the classroom is always a challenging task, especially when they're teens. In this seminar we will have a look at and participate in some practical and ready to use classroom activities for you to use in your classroom. We will have a closer look at how to motivate your teens to write as well as different activities, games and worksheets for all levels.

Barbora Lacinová: Debate – the way to lose one's opinion?

Nowadays, we live in a strongly polarized world where everyone has an opinion. From politics to the list of the National ice hockey team, the ability to create and justify it is bread and butter for the majority of us. But have you ever tried to defend an opinion that you disagree with? Academic debate brings an interesting learning tool that teaches you to listen, to accept, but also to critically evaluate thoughts, no matter if you agree or disagree.

Markus Obrink: Speak Up! - part I

Presentation skills is an essential part of most jobs today. Done right, it's also a very enjoyable experience. But if we don't know how to do it—and most people don't—then everything gets so much more difficult. This workshop will teach you how to plan and give successful presentations in an easy-going and friendly way. It's divided into two parts: the basics and practice the most important skills, and a shorter part where we go deeper into the mysteries of non-verbal language, visuals and interactivity.

21. 8. 14.00 - 15.30

Markus Obrink: Speak Up! - part II

Second part of Speak Up! session will take you deeper into the mysteries of non-verbal language, visuals and interactivity.

22. 8. 9.00 - 12.30

Petra Schneiderová: Twee - AI tool to assist you with your English lessons

In this seminar, you will learn about an innovative and powerful AI tool called Twee. Twee can generate educational materials for teachers of English and can help you to make your preparation faster, more effective and fun for your students. Twee can be used to create materials for developing language skills of your students, be it for reading and speaking or vocabulary and grammar. During the seminar you will have the chance to try out various options of the tool, create your own materials as well as study already prepared materials and understand how they were created and used in English lessons. Make sure to bring your own laptops or tablets.
